

You are Faithful, You are Lord

Something faithful is considered consistently trustworthy and loyal. In a marriage, it's being committed to one person both sexually and emotionally. In our military, it's following through on a commitment to duty and loyalty to our country. In a friendship, it's having someone you can call, hang out with, someone you can trust and depend upon.

The creation of the universe demonstrates God's faithfulness and is described in Scripture: "The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of His hands." Psalm 19:1

Music and Lyrics by Deborah Johnson

When there was nothing at all, And there was darkness in space, You reached out through the night, You spoke the world into place.

Dividing sea and the land, You did this all with your hand. Created mountain and shore, For you are Faithful, You are Lord.

You made an ocean so deep, Commanded waves to move so free, You put the creatures that would be on every mountain, plain and sea.

And from the earth you took some clay, Created man to walk that day. And with a breath your love outpoured, For you are Faithful, You are Lord.

When all the people you made Turned against the Word you gave, They had a need to find a way For redemption, love and grace.

You sent your Son from Heaven above, An act of mercy, act of love. Your saving power to restore, For you are Faithful, You are Lord.

When we see what came before, We find you're faithful, You are Lord. So when the wind and rain come down, We find a love that has no bound.

For when we can't see past the storm, You can mend a heart that's torn. You are all we need and more, For you are Faithful, You are Lord.
